Dear Jamie,

It may be a little while before I get to the chapters with your 1/11. I got a box from Dennis that I have to go through and with the local retyping only problems that should not exist and much waste of my time. People insist on doing what I tell them repeatedly not do do and not doing what I ask-and not learning from the mistakes that result.

And, I'm deep into a second Afterword for a book I doubt you know about, Waketh the Watchman. It may be that once I see what I have from Dennis I'd better finish that in part because that book is long finished.

It addresses motive, means and opportunity.

Depends on how I feel when I get up early mornings. If I should just sit then I'll be going over some of this. With Dennis away probably what you sent would be what I get onto.

In any event, thanks and I'll be in touch again before too long.

Have a good year,

Harold
